

Questions for evaluation by teachers.

1. Did the project lead to any changes in your teaching?

Yes, indeed. It made me reflect about the way I have been teaching before and how to improve it.

2. What do the students' evaluations show?

They do not like maths as a subject but they do appreciate the teacher's effort and have notice the change in the way of teaching.

3. What is the teachers' impression?

In general I think it has been an enriching experience but I have found quite difficult to make classes more entertaining and, at the same time, to maintain students' concentration at theoretical explanations and individual work.

4. Which activities have been the most successful? In what way (motivation, grades ...)?

Oral explanations, work in group and recording of experimental work.

5. Which influence did the project have on the amount of working hours (teachers)?

I could not measure that, I don't think I have worked more but better.

6. Which effect will the project have on your future teaching?

As I have said, I think my teaching has derived into a reflection and continuous improving feedback circuit.

7. Which effect will the project have on your colleagues' teaching?

We are trying introducing practical work in any new lesson we prepare

8. Which advices would you give the teachers of foreign languages and national languages?

I would advise to reflect and not to be afraid of changes.
